

Transition to Adulthood: The Care Act and the law on social care entitlement in adult life.

Wednesday 20th June 2018 in central London

Action for Kids, together with the Advocacy and Support Partnership, and leading law firm Irwin Mitchell, are delighted to present a series of flagship seminars for parents, carers and professionals, which will cover issues related to special educational needs and disabilities.

Seminars are only £15 (including lunch) for parents and carers, and £45 for professionals, and can be booked using the links below.

The law concerning how adults (18+) with disabilities are cared for, and the rights of carers, changed in 2014.

- What does this mean for young people planning for adult life, and for carers?
- How do you ensure the voices of students, and your voice as a carer, is heard and evidenced in the assessment process?
- What should a good care plan look like?
- How does the care plan link with Education Health and Care Plans (EHCPs)?
- How do you ensure your needs and financial rights as carers are not neglected?
- Supported employment – how does the Care Act help young people into employment?
- What is Access to Work and how can you use it?

Hear top lawyers, education and care and employment specialists answer these questions and more, talk you through the process, and provide exciting ideas.
